Benjamin Britten wrote his Elegy for viola - probably for himself to play - after he left school at sixteen years old. He’d been at Gresham’s School for two years and didn’t have a happy time there. On leaving he said ‘I didn’t think I should be sorry to leave’, but found that he missed them all the same.

How by Huw Watkins is one of eight new songs written during lockdown that together make up ‘Eight Songs from Isolation’ - an opera shot entirely on iPhone and recently released on Apple Music. “When, at the height of lockdown, Oliver Zeffman invited me to write one of the Eight Songs from Isolation he was commissioning, I immediately looked at the poetry of Philip Larkin. His bleak poem, How, seemed to resonate strongly this spring. I wanted to capture, in my setting, some of the stark emptiness and desolation of the poem.” Huw Watkins

As one of Wales’ leading composers, Watkins was the ideal choice to write a new work to mark the 60th birthday of HRH The Prince of Wales, in 2008. The choice of work was an easy one for Watkins who describes his settings of Welsh folk songs as ‘something of a guilty pleasure’!

Benjamin Britten’s Serenade for Tenor, Horn and strings centres on settings of six English poems, broadly based around night, sleep and dreams, which are framed by a Prologue and Epilogue for solo horn. These are to be played without the use of valves, in the style of an ancient hunting horn that can achieve only the notes of the natural harmonic series of the horn.

The six central movements are very different in character, in keeping with their respective texts, but each showcases the outstanding virtuosity required from the two soloists. This is particularly evident in the Nocturne, which features duet cadenzas for voice and horn.

Visions Fugitives by Prokofiev in a cycle of whimsical, effervescent and bright miniatures - originally for solo piano - written for friends of the composer. In his arrangement for string orchestra, Barshai has set 15 of the 20 vignette-like movements.
TOBY SPENCE

OLIVER ZEFFMAN
CONDUCTOR

Described by The Telegraph as “phenomenally promising”, the young British conductor Oliver Zeffman was the Classical Music nominee for The Times Breakthrough Artist Award at the 2018 South Bank Sky Arts Awards.

For the 2019/20 season, Oliver was the Associate Conductor of the London Chamber Orchestra, with whom he toured to the Mariinsky Theatre’s Stars of the White Nights Festival to give the Russian premiere of George Benjamin’s Lessons in Love and Violence.

Over the last few months, as the ongoing pandemic shut down live music, Oliver - collaborating with Apple Music - commissioned and recorded a new opera-film, Eight Songs from Isolation, with contributions from some of the leading artists of today, including Thomas Adès, Nico Muhly, Sarah Connolly and Iestyn Davies.

Recent and upcoming debuts include with the Academy of St Martin in the Fields, Orchestre National du Capitole de Toulouse, Ulster Orchestra, KMH Symfonieorkester, Oulu Sinfonia, Urals Youth Symphony Orchestra, Jersey Symphony Orchestra, West Green House Opera and Chelsea Opera Group. Oliver has worked as an assistant to Valery Gergiev, preparing orchestras including the Rotterdam and Luxembourg Philharmonics; Daniel Harding, for whom he has prepared Mahler’s Symphony No. 8 with both the Swedish Radio Symphony Orchestra and the New Japan Philharmonic; and to Gustavo Dudamel, Gianandrea Noseda and Vladimir Jurowski.

A keen advocate for contemporary music, Oliver has, to date, commissioned and premiered twenty-one new works from some of the most exciting composers of today; and has given the Russian premieres of a number of important 20th and 21st century pieces - as well as Lessons in Love and Violence - Maxwell Davies’ Eight Songs for a Mad King, Walton’s Fracture and Ligeti’s Aventures and Nouvelles Aventures.

A graduate of the Royal Academy of Music, Oliver Zeffman originally studied History and Russian at Durham University and also spent a year at the Rimsky-Korsakov St Petersburg State Conservatory under the direction of Alexander Polishchuk.
ROBERT SMISSEN
VIOLA

Born in Mansfield Nottinghamshire, Robert Smissen won a scholarship to Chethams School of Music and went on to study at the Guildhall School of Music, from which he graduated with distinction. After playing with the European Community Youth Orchestra and the Chamber Orchestra of Europe he took the position of Principal Viola with the Northern Sinfonia before joining the Academy of St Martin in the Fields, with whom he has been Principal Viola for over 25 years. He often performs as a soloist with the orchestra, and as a member of the ASMF chamber ensemble and the Pro Arte Piano Quartet he has performed, broadcast and recorded all over the world. Outside of music, being a father of five keeps him more than busy, but his other interests include walking his six dogs, gardening, DIY, early renaissance art, philosophy, cooking and cricket.
STEPHEN STIRLING HORN

Stephen Stirling is a renowned soloist. Recordings of Mozart Horn Concertos with the City of London Sinfonia feature constantly on Classic FM and he gave the world première of Gary Carpenter’s Horn Concerto with the BBC Philharmonic on Radio 3. He holds the unique distinction of having been the soloist for the opening of both of London’s newest purpose built concert halls – Cabot Hall and King’s Place.

He has a world-wide reputation as a chamber musician, in constant demand at festivals in the UK and abroad as well as being a founder member of Endymion, The Fibonacci Sequence, the Audley Trio, Arpège, and the New London Chamber Ensemble. Amongst over 75 recorded chamber works, Brahm’s Horn Trio, with the Florestan Trio, was nominated for a Gramophone award. CDs of York Bowen, Thomas Dunhill, Stanford, and Horn a Fibonacci/Deux Elles CD of rare chamber works featuring the horn, have met with great critical acclaim. Principal of the Academy of St Martin in the Fields, and the City of London Sinfonia, Guest Principal Horn with the Capella Andrea Barca, Orquestra de Cadaques and Scottish Chamber Orchestra, and member then Guest Principal of the Chamber Orchestra of Europe, Stephen is privileged to have worked with many of the world’s finest chamber orchestras.

Professor of Horn at Trinity College of Music, on the faculty of the Yellow Barn Summer Music School and Festival in Vermont, Stephen is also a veteran of the Dartington International Summer School.
