DEFINITIONS

Children / young people – these terms are used interchangeably in this document to refer to individuals under the age of 18 years.

Academy personnel - refers to all adults who represent the Academy of St Martin in the Fields including: office staff, management, freelance musicians / project staff / amateurs and workshop leaders, trainees and volunteers (e.g. office staff and student musicians), and board members.

POLICY STATEMENT

Our Commitment

The Academy of St Martin in the Fields acknowledges its responsibility to safeguard and promote the welfare of children and is committed to ensuring that its safeguarding practice reflects statutory responsibilities, the guidance of young people's services and the government.

The orchestra produces an enriching and dynamic learning and participation programme that reaches children and in turn their parents, carers, schools and youth organisations. Fundamental to our commitment to provide high-quality orchestral and performance experiences that enable young people's musicality to thrive is our ability to provide a safe learning environment where children and Academy personnel feel secure, valued and listened to.

This policy statement recognises that the welfare and interests of children are paramount. It aims to ensure that regardless of age, gender, religion or beliefs, ethnicity, disability, sexual orientation or socioeconomic background, all children:

- have a positive, creative and enjoyable musical learning experience whilst on projects with the Academy of St Martin in the Fields in a safe and child-centred environment;*
- are protected from abuse and harm whilst participating in any Academy of St Martin in the Fields' activities.*

The Academy will safeguard the children involved in its projects by:

- promoting and prioritising the safety and wellbeing of children and young people*
- ensuring all personnel understand their roles and responsibilities*
- ensure all personnel and participants know the identity of the Designated Person /Child Protection Officer on that project and therefore who they should report concerns, incidents and disclosures to.*

- be open about and help others to understand our safeguarding procedures by making available upon request our child protection documents to the community, including young people, parents, carers, schools, venues and youth organisations.
- ensure personnel and children are provided with required levels of supervision, and adults working on projects are DBS certified as instructed by the Disclosure and Barring Service.
- ensure appropriate and swift action is taken in the event of incidents/reports of abuse, and that the individual/s concerned understand that their report is being taken seriously. We will ensure that the individual/s receive support and explain clearly the next steps of action (see action plan and procedures).
- ensure that confidential, detailed and accurate records of all safeguarding concerns are maintained and securely stored
- prevent the employment / deployment of unsuitable individuals
- ensure that a robust safeguarding action plan and procedures are in operation.

The Academy regularly employs some of the finest and most professional musicians and educators in the world, and recognises its responsibility to care for and protect its personnel. In any education project, all parties involved share a culture of trust and mutual respect based on their expertise, conduct, and a common enthusiasm for music. Malicious and false statements can arise. Therefore the Academy will fulfil its responsibility to its personnel by ensuring that:

- within this document there are guidelines in place for safe working practices, and ensuring that personnel receive a copy of this document;
- personnel recognise and accept their responsibility in creating a safe learning and teaching environment;
- all personnel are aware of the issues that cause children harm;
- all personnel understand their obligation to report concerns, disclosures and incidences of harm to their Designated Person and or Child Protection Officer.

In turn our personnel are required to read and adhere to the procedures outlined in this document before participating in an Academy education project.

Monitoring of policy, action plan and procedures

The Academy’s Child Protection documents and practices will be reviewed every year, or in the following circumstances:

- changes in legislation and/or government guidance
- as required by the government, Local Safeguarding Children Board, Associated Board of Orchestras, Local Authorities or children’s’ services
- as a result of any other significant change or event.

The next date for review is 14/01/2022.

PROCEDURES

“the action we take to promote the welfare of children and protect them from harm - is everyone’s responsibility. Everyone who comes into contact with children and families has a role to play.” Working together to safeguard children (HM Government 2013)

As a provider of musical learning activities for children, the Academy has a duty of care to the young people and communities we work with, as well as our personnel. This document discusses the following areas of safeguarding, including the procedures personnel and management must adhere to in order to ensure a safe learning environment for all participating in an Academy project.

1. Legislation
2. Forms of harm
3. Recognising abuse
4. Responding to signs of abuse
5. Code of practice
6. Other relevant information

1. Legislation

According to The Children Act \(1989 and 2004\), English law states that individuals who work with children have a duty to keep them safe; further guidance from the government can be found in ‘Working together to Safeguard Children’ \(2013\). The UK is also a signatory of the United Nations’ Convention on the Rights of the Child, which details the rights of children to keep them free from harm.

Also, the Academy in its working practices employs individuals for work on projects involving children in line with the instructions of Disclosure and Barring Service.

2. Forms of harm

The NSPCC defines child abuse:

“Child abuse is the term used when an adult harms a child or a young person under the age of 18. Child abuse can take four forms, all of which can cause long-term damage to a child: physical abuse, emotional abuse, neglect and child sexual abuse. Bullying and domestic violence are also forms of child abuse.”

The definition of abuse also includes inflicting and failing to act to prevent harm. Children may experience abuse as a result of a) another individual (adult or child) b) an institution, community setting or organisation known to them or others (including the internet).

The descriptions for forms of abuse below have been adapted from 'Working Together to Safeguard Children' (2013) HM Government.

Physical abuse

- Hitting, shaking, throwing, poisoning burning or scalding, drowning, suffocating or otherwise causing harm to a child.
- When a parent or carer fabricates the symptoms of, or deliberately induces, illness in a child (i.e. Munchausen Syndrome by proxy).
- Physical abuse through omission or failure to act to protect

Emotional abuse

- Persistent emotional ill treatment of a child such as to cause severe and persistent adverse effects on the child's emotional development. It may involve making a child feel or believe they are worthless or unloved, inadequate or valued only insofar as they meet the needs of the other person. Emotional abuse can include not giving the child opportunities to express their views, deliberately silencing them or 'making fun' of what they say or how they communicate.
- Age or developmentally inappropriate expectations being imposed on children. These may include interactions that are beyond a child's developmental capability, as well as overprotection and limitation of exploration and learning, or preventing the child participating in normal social interaction (including bullying and social exclusion by an adult or another child).
- Seeing or hearing the ill-treatment of another, witnessing drug and alcohol misuse or the mental illness of a parent or carer, and serious bullying (including cyber bullying and violence at home).
- Causing children frequently to feel frightened or in danger, or the exploitation or corruption of children.

Some level of emotional abuse is involved in all types of ill-treatment of a child, though it may occur alone.

Sexual abuse

- Forcing or enticing a child or young person to take part in sexual activities, not necessarily involving violence, whether or not the child is aware of what is happening.

- Physical contact, including assault by penetration (including rape or oral sex), or non-penetrative acts (including masturbation, kissing, rubbing and touching outside of clothing).
- Non-contact activities such as involving children in looking at, or in the production of, sexual images, watching sexual activities, encouraging children to behave in sexually inappropriate ways, or grooming a child in preparation for abuse (including via the internet).
- Perpetrators can include adult males, adult females, and other children.

Neglect

- Persistent failure to meet a child's basic physical and/or psychological needs, likely to result in the serious impairment of the child's health or development. It may involve a parent or a carer failing to provide adequate food, shelter and clothing, leaving a child home alone or in the care of an inappropriate care-giver, or the failure to ensure that a child gets appropriate medical care or treatment. It may also include neglect of, or unresponsiveness to, a child's basic emotional needs.
- Neglect may occur during pregnancy or once the child is born.

“Remember, this list does not cover every child abuse possibility. You may have seen other things in the child's behaviour or circumstances that worry you. Abuse is always wrong and it is never the young person's fault.” NSPCC.

3. Recognising abuse

There are a number of ways a member of personnel may have their suspicions or concerns raised as to abuse taking place, including:

- the conduct of an adult connected to a project (parent, carer, teacher, non-Academy personnel member, Academy personnel or another adult)
- a child 'disclosing' physical, emotional, sexual abuse or neglect
- evidence of harm
- unusual behaviour by a child

Below is a detailed list of signs which may or may not be indicators that abuse has taken place, but the possibility should be considered.

Physical abuse

Signs may include:

- Any injuries not consistent with the explanation given for them
- Injuries in places which aren't normally exposed to falls or games
- Unexplained bruising, marks or injuries on any part of the body
- Bruises which reflect hand marks or fingertips (from slapping or pinching)
- Cigarette burns
- Bite marks
- Broken bones
- Scalds
- Injuries which have not received medical attention
- Neglect –under nourishment, failure to grow, constant hunger, stealing or gorging food, untreated illnesses, inadequate care
- Repeated urinary infections or unexplained stomach pains

Changes in behaviour which can also indicate physical abuse:

- Fear of parents being approached for an explanation
- Aggressive behaviour or severe temper outbursts
- Flinching when approached or touched
- Reluctance to get changed, or wearing winter clothing in hot weather
- depression
- withdrawn behaviour
- running away from home

Emotional signs of abuse

Signs may include:

- A failure to thrive or grow particularly if a child puts on weight in other circumstances e.g. in hospital or away from their parents' or guardians' care
- sudden speech disorders
- persistent tiredness
- Development delay, either in terms of physical or emotional progress

Changes in behaviour which can also indicate emotional abuse include:

- obsessions or phobias
- sudden under-achievement or lack of concentration
- inappropriate relationships with peers and/or adults
- being unable to play
- attention seeking behaviour
- fear of making mistakes
- self-harm
- fear of parent being approached regarding their behaviour

Sexual abuse

The physical signs of abuse may include:

- Pain or itching in the genital/anal area
- bruising or bleeding near genital/anal areas
- sexually transmitted disease
- vaginal discharge or infection
- stomach pains
- discomfort when walking or sitting down
- pregnancy

Changes in behaviour which can also indicate sexual abuse include:

- sudden or unexplained changes in behaviour e.g. becoming withdrawn or aggressive
- fear of being left with a specific person or group of people
- having nightmares
- running away from home
- sexual knowledge which is beyond their age or developmental level
- sexual drawings or language
- bedwetting
- eating problems such as over-eating or anorexia
- self-harm or mutilation, sometimes leading to suicide attempts
- saying they have secrets they cannot tell anyone about
- substance or drug abuse
- suddenly having unexplained sources of money
- Not allowed to have friends (particularly in adolescence)
- acting in a sexually explicit way with adults

Neglect

Signs may include:

- constant hunger, sometimes stealing food from other children
- Constantly dirty or smelly
- loss of weight or being constantly underweight
- inappropriate dress for the conditions

Changes in behaviour which can also indicate neglect include:

- complaining of being tired all the time
- not requesting medical assistance and /or failing to attend appointments
- Having few friends
- mentioning being left alone or unsupervised

4. Responding to signs of abuse

General

- stay calm
- remember that the safety of the child is paramount

Following suspicions

The guidelines for Academy personnel suspicious of abuse are as follows:

- if you see or suspect abuse of a child, make the Designated Person or Child Protection Officer with legal responsibilities aware of the problem immediately
- make a note of what you have witnessed for Academy records, along with the response, in case there should be any consequences in which you may be involved (see incident form). Do not investigate or take matters into your own hands.

Responding to a disclosure

If a child discloses information of abuse, Academy personnel should:

- remain calm and approachable and show no judgement
- listen to what is said. Allow the child / young person to speak without interruption, making it clear that you are taking them seriously.
- do not deter children from making a disclosure of abuse for fear of not being believed, and to listen to what they have to say.
- ask for clarification where it's needed but do not ask for more information than is necessary or suggest a particular answer.
- as early as possible inform the child that you will need to share the information with others who are in a position to help them. Do not promise to keep secrets.
- assure them that the problem will remain confidential, and that the child has done the right thing by telling you.
- Tell the child what you will do next and who you will share the information with.
- Record in writing what was said, using the child's own words as soon as possible. The report should be a factual report based on evidence and not on any assumptions or opinion unless clearly stated that this is so.
- Do not confront the alleged abuser
- Remember that you have a responsibility to report the disclosure or concern, even if the situation is overwhelming
- Do not disturb or destroy possible forensic evidence

It is important to remember that the person who first encounters a case of alleged abuse is not responsible for deciding whether abuse has occurred. This is a task for the professional agencies and authorities, following a referral from the Child Protection Officer.

Reporting a disclosure or concern

When a child discloses information or abuse, the Academy personnel should:

- immediately inform your Child Protection Officer (if on the project) or Designated Person about the disclosure. Delay could compromise the welfare of the child.
- if not done already, make a report immediately comprising the actual words voiced by the child.
- give a copy of the report to the Designated Person / Child Protection Officer who will refer it onto the appropriate organisations and or authorities
- never pass on any of the information to any third party other than those who should be involved. The report should remain confidential at all times
- never speak to the person(s) against whom an allegation has been made, or put the child in danger, or put anyone at risk of further compromise.

If your concern regards the conduct of another member of personnel you should:

- remember you as an individual, as well as a representative of the Academy, have a responsibility to the welfare of children
- report the concern to the Child Protection Officer (if on the project) or Designated Person who will create a record of the concern with you. Your concern will be listened to in good faith and in confidence (NB your identity may be shared with the authorities should they need to be involved).

The Designated Person will refer to the Child Protection Officer. The Child Protection Officer will refer the concern to the authorities and senior management as is appropriate and will keep a written record of the concern on file. The concern will be raised with the member of personnel concerned and they will be informed as to the action that will be taken. Your identity will remain anonymous, unless the matter should proceed to court.

If you are concerned about the behaviour of a child towards you or you feel a young person is relating to you in an inappropriate way you should:

- speak to Designated Person / Child Protection Officer about your concerns immediately so that action can be taken, and both you and the child can be protected.

The Child Protection Office and Designated Person

The Academy's Child Protection Officer is Alan Watt, Chief Executive. All incidences, suspicions and disclosures must be reported to her and she will liaise with the authorities using the information reported.

Contact: alanwatt@asmf.org

The Designated Person is the workshop leader / animateur or project manager. Players will be notified on the master schedule.

The Child Protection Officer receives regular training and notifications from the Musician's Union, NSPCC and the Disclosure and Barring Service in order to keep up-to-date with Child Protection procedures.

When the Child Protection Officer is not present for a project, all concerns, disclosures and allegations must be communicated to her at the earliest opportunity, but in the first instance may be shared with the project's Designated Person (who will pass on your report). Personnel will be informed as to the identity of the Designated Person (e.g. the project manager) via their schedules.

The role of the Designated Person is to:

- be the first point of contact for reporting allegations, disclosures and concerns of abuse
- receive information from Academy personnel, children or parents who have concerns, and record this and ensure they have recorded the details (see incident report template for details to record)
- to pass on reports to the Child Protection Officer

The role of the Child Protection Officer is to:

- make a formal referral to the appropriate authorities and senior management
- act as a source of advice, support and knowledge within the organisation
- ensure that all Academy personnel are aware of and have access to this document
- ensure that the policy is upgraded when necessary
- ensure that accurate and secure written records of referrals are kept
- keep a record of all contact details of all authorities so they can be contacted should any suspicion, allegation or referral occur.

It is not the role of the Designated Person or Child Protection Officer to decide whether a child has been abused or not; this is the task of the relevant authorities. However, it is everybody's responsibility to ensure that concerns are shared and appropriate action taken.

5. Code of practice

To ensure we protect and safeguard the children in our care to the best of our ability, all personnel must adhere to the working practices listed below:

Physical contact

Physical contact should not be initiated and avoided where possible.

- Where possible, instrument technique should be modelled or explained verbally. However, where forms of demonstration have failed and in your professional judgement physical contact is the logical solution, personnel must ensure they gain the child's permission first and that they are working in an open and visible environment (e.g. a room with windows) before making contact.

- If you are working with a child who is disabled, ask them first before initiating any necessary physical contact.

- If a child initiates contact (e.g. a hug) then it is within your professional discretion to decide whether to reciprocate. However if you do, ensure that you are in an open and visible environment with another adult present.

Creating and maintaining a safe teaching and learning environment

As well as adhering to the working practices above regarding physical contact, personnel should ensure the wellbeing of children by implementing the following measures during projects.

- Work in spaces that are well-lit and ensure that the room has windows to communal spaces so the environment can be observed by others (where not possible, teach with the door open.)

- Personnel must not make suggestive or inappropriate remarks to or about a child, even in fun, as this could be misinterpreted.

- Personnel should model good practice to children demonstrating that they value and respect the young people as individuals through constructive feedback, fair treatment, support and ensuring project participants have contributed to and influenced creative processes in workshops; this behaviour will exclude shouting, bullying, racism, sexism or sectarianism.

The orchestra management understand that they have a responsibility to ensure their personnel work in appropriate and safe environments with children. This includes ensuring members of personnel work in:

- open / observable spaces (e.g. classrooms with windows)
- pairs, teams or under supervision where possible and certainly where necessary
- environments where the risks to both children and personnel have been assessed prior to a project taking place
- appropriate adult to children ratios, as recommended by the NSPCC.

Training and recruitment

The Academy understands that it is against the law to employ someone or allow them to volunteer to work with children if we know they are barred from working with young people.

The Academy employs personnel for projects that involve children based on the recommendations made by the government via the Disclosure and Barring Service, applying for DBS certificates and checking the barred lists as is necessary for the role (i.e. based on the type, frequency and intensity of the work). Where a DBS certificate is not necessary, the management will assess the risk to the children and personnel involved in the project and take measures to ensure all teach and learn within a safe environment (e.g. ask adults to work in pairs, provide supervision).

All personnel are required as part of their contract to read these Child Protection documents and adhere to their instructions, prior to any project involving children.

The orchestra's management also has a duty to provide appropriate support and skills training to enable personnel to fulfil their role when working with young people on Academy projects.

Photos and filming

Only personnel appointed to film or photograph projects by the Academy may take films or photos of any project involving children. During in-school projects non-Academy personnel may film or photograph if they have permission from the children's carers and the Academy. Parents and carers may film and photograph events involving other people's children where the Academy has gained the consent of parents and carers of participants in advance.

Contact outside of Academy projects

In general, the Academy does not encourage personnel to have contact with children outside of projects.

- Personnel must not offer a young person a lift; the only exceptions to this rule are a) if the child is a family member of the member of personnel, or b) if written permission has been granted in advance by the child's parent or carer and approved by the management. Personnel are not permitted to: have phone contact (text or calls), email or social media correspondence with a child; the only exceptions being the office management who may be in contact for project and care purposes, or in contact through the Academy's official social media accounts. All data will be stored in line with the Academy's GDPR procedures.

- If a child from a project requests instrumental lessons from a member of personnel, and the musician wishes to teach that young person, they should do the following: declare it to the Chief Executive who will contact the child's parents/carers, confirm that the parents/carers wish to go ahead and put them in contact with the player. No arrangements should be made between child and musician.

- Only the project manager has permission to remove a child from an Academy out-of-school project and take them to a doctors/hospital for medical treatment and only with the consent of the child's parent or carer (which is given through our parental consent forms).

- only appointed members of the pastoral team, supervised by the project manager, may escort children between project venues with the parents' or carers' consent.

Recording incidences

Electronic copies of reports will be retained and stored securely on the Academy shared drive; the files will be password protected and accessible to the Child Protection Officer and CEO only.

Remember, under the Data Protection Act of 1998 both the alleged victim and alleged abuser have the right to confidentiality, and that an investigation can be compromised through inappropriate information being released. Personnel must keep all facts confidential except where details must be discussed or revealed as part of an investigation to the appropriate authorities.

ACTION PLAN

Ensuring awareness of our Child Protection commitment and procedures

All personnel working on an Academy project are issued with a copy of the orchestra's child protection documents. As a condition of work all personnel must adhere to the procedures outlined within this Child Protection document.

Children, parents and carers, schools, youth organisations and other community members are able to review the Academy's Child Protection documents.

All personnel are informed who their Child Protection Officer is and who their Designated Person is for that project.

All children, parents and carers, schools, youth organisations and community members involved in the project know the identity of the Designated Person /Child Protection Officer who is responsible for all welfare and safeguarding issues during the course of the project.

How concerns / disclosures / allegations will be managed
